Weird Story Brainstorming

By Nedu Ibezim

Normal Luke Amidio and Allay Amidio got straight A's, until one day on June 10, 1995, someone took Luke's homework. That day he got an F. Therefore, he went at night to Chuck rocks at the Lake because he was so mad. However, something happened, the third rock came back. Luke and Allay went into the Lake to check it out. They were sucked up by a whirl poll. They ended up at a fortress.

Luke saw a bright light and went to it. Allay ran after him. They touched the light and Luke and Allay fell unconscious. Luke and Allay woke up in a big ditch with three dogs around them. They said, "where are we?" but expecting no answer. They heard one of the dogs say something "June 10, 2075 my friend". Maybe you not are from here, are you, said the dog. 'No' Said Luke.

There you are, said a boy. Hi, are you from here? "No, said Luke". Where are from, asked James. "Westerville, Ohio 1995" replied Allay. "Uh Oh" said James. "What is wrong James", asked Luke. You are my granddad, said James. What is your last name? "Amidio", replied Luke. "Oh no" my last name is Amidio also, said James.

"Quickly, quickly let's go to a secret fortress. I am going to alert my dad whom I'm sure is Luke's son", James said. Oh my goodness, was I married? Luke asked. However, as he waited for an answer from James, unexpectedly, an answer came from the "shadows" that said "yes I thought this would happen". Since King Luke Jr is always guarded, I am a king said Luke. Allay would be the queen. Oh yea, said an unknown man. If I took out King Luke, he would never be a King, and then I would be a king.

Why would you be the King? James asked. That is because I am Mark, you brother. When he said that, Luke's mouth dropped open, Allay almost fainted, the dog aka "buddy" pooped on himself, and James almost threw up. Well in that case, ~~I have to~~ run out ~~of here~~, said James. They all ran out in different directions. James and Allay ran in right direction towards ~~the big ditch~~ <sup>The Canal</sup>. Luke and Buddy ran left towards ~~an open stretch~~ <sup>the cemetery</sup>

~~road~~ Toward a dead end mark found them and mark found a dagger and said "now I can finally despose of you Luke!!" But at that moment James hit him -

The House On Maple Street

One night it was vary calm in Tennessee and there was a vary strange light in the dark sky. Jack, Sam and Alex thought that they should take a walk and exsplore the forest. When they were done, Jack went to find food, Sam went to find shelter, and Alex went to find help. Sam found shelter and Jack brought the food, but Alex didn't find help and they all went to bed.

When they woke up they ate breakfast and started to leave the forest.

When they got out of the forest, all three of them got scared to cross the road because there were cars. Since they were scared they just dug a hole to sleep in.

It's their second day on Earth and they started to fight to see which one will cross the road first. Sam lost so he started to cross the road and the rest followed.

Captain Tory

By: Connor Dean McGee

Prologue

The year was 1921. The air was thin and crisp on this foggy November night. Captain Tory and his grandson, Tory II, were standing at the riverside in Glasgow, Scotland. At last Captain Tory holds his grandson firm and takes a deep breath. He swung his lantern three times and slowly the schooner appeared.

Tory Potter looked up from his novel at his corrupt family. He saw his wife, Elizabeth, arguing with her boss. Her red hair was swishing so violently he could smell her shampoo all the way from the living room. He looked over at his son, Tory III, who was playing with his trains. He was glad to see one of his family members enjoying life. He was disappointed when he saw a frown form on his son's freckled face. He sobbed, and then stuck his nose back in his book.

After he made way through a paragraph or so his wife hung up angrily and explained she had to go to work for an emergency meeting. As soon as she left Tory III came storming in. He suggested playing Dragon Slayer, his favorite board game. Tory Potter obeyed and shot up to the attic. He thought of the attic as a strange place, but still hesitated to find the games. His grandfather, Captain Tory, or formally, Tory Potter I. The Potters moved to his old house when their house was flooded completely. His wife complained about moving here, for it was old and dusty. When she saw the mold and water damage she shut right up. She never dared to come up to the attic, for it looked like a science experiment gone wrong, and he had to agree. He was sure no actual science experiments were help here, but it was filled with cups and bottles and other dusty china. He switched his view to the back shelf in the room. He reached for Dragon Slayer, but knocked something else off instead. It was a book with JOURNAL_ imprinted on the front with gold. He flipped to the first page and read Journal of Tory Edger Potter.

Tory gasped, and found himself flipping through the leathery book. Captain Tory guided a ship that shipped imports to Glasgow, Scotland for Great Britain and the entire United Kingdom. One stormy night the ship hit an iceberg and sunk. Captain Tory and his wife, Melissa, were one of the few survivors. Many of the survivors that made it to shore, including Melissa, died upon illness. Every year on their anniversary, November 7th, Captain Tory came to the River Clyde, and summoned the souls of the ship.

Tory Potter was very touched, but realized something. He realized today was November seventh! Then he had a great idea. He grabbed his granddad's old lantern and clothes. He told his son he had a surprise. He drove to the River Clyde and stood at the fence, holding his son's hand firm. He takes one last deep breath. He swung his lantern three times and slowly the schooner appeared.

Sister Agnes' Adventure

HALLOWEEN!

It was dark in the church. Sister Agnes was sitting in a chair reading a book. She had a weird feeling. Like she wasn't alone. Somebody was there with her. She tried to get up, but she couldn't.

It turns out someone glued her to the chair. She yelled to see for sure if anyone was there. Two men walked slowly out of the back of the dark church. She asked who they were. They just stood there silently.

After a couple of minutes of silence, sister Agnes asked if they could help her with her chair. They just glared at her. A bright light came shining through the windows at the top of the church. The tall men looked at each other and nodded. They had masks on and decided it was the right time to pull them off. All Sister Agnes saw after was two green alien faces!

She screamed! The aliens were walking toward her. She screamed even louder. About half way of walking to sister Agnes, they started doing a very strange dance. She wondered if they were signaling the other aliens. She found out they were when her chair started floating.

The aliens used their lazer fingers to carve a hole in the ceiling so she can come through. She looked up and found a UFO! They put her in their space ship and she saw all different aliens. She was so freaked out, she couldn't even scream! One of the aliens said that she was the queen. Sister Agnes thought that since the aliens were wearing very similar outfits so maybe those are kings and they think she is the queen.

They tied her up in a very uncomfortable throne. She had to wait until all of them were in bed to try to escape. Finally the last alien went to sleep. Sister Agnes found scissors by the alien sink. She cut out of the thick rope. Sister Agnes slowly and quietly walked over to the door. She touched the door knob, and turned it. The door flew open and she went running out of the space ship. Sister Agnes heard the alarms going off over at the space ship. The aliens were chasing after her. She discovered her special powers that she can fly! When she landed on earth, she flew to her house, walked in, and ate chips.

THE HARP

So it's true he thought, it's really true.

By Elliot J. Prince

A boy and his dog lived in a jungle village. The village was always very hungry. There was an old man that told a story about a harp that can help you catch fish by making music to attract the fish. Later that day, the adults went out to look for the harp.

The boy decided to go looking for the harp because he wanted to help the village. The boy and the dog were walking through the jungle all day. They were hungry for fish. They found a pretty stream. The boy and the dog found the harp. The boy played the harp.

The beautiful music made the fish come to the side of the stream. The dog caught four fish. The boy put down the harp. So it's true he thought, it's really true. When they were back at the village they found everyone else was gone. The boy wanted to eat right away.

The boy made a fire in the fire pit. The boy cooked the four fish in the fire pit. They smelled good and made them even hungrier. The boy and the dog ate two fish each. They were stuffed.

The boy and the dog weren't hungry any more. The villagers came back from hunting. They caught a huge bear. The boy told the villagers he caught four fish with a harp. They believed him and had a party.

When Emma's birthday came she went through the portal. Emma saw fairies flying, animals talking, flowers blooming and a magical castle far far away beyond the trees. Emma danced and played with the creatures and had lots of fun.

When the time came to go the door started shrinking until she could not fit through. So for now Emma was stuck in the portal. The creatures tried to help her by telling her about the wizard that lives in the castle. When Emma decided to go to the castle the creatures told her it takes a long time to get there.

Emma started on her

Journey. As time passed the portal disappeared. Finally when she got there the wizard granted her wish, and after months of being gone Emma went back through the portal to home. The scientist's heart was pounding he was sure he seen the door not turn.

Another Place, Another Time

By Michael Nguyen

It was a cold, chilly day in 1459. Mark, Sarah, John and baby Benny were in a cart on their way to capture the golden goose, because if there was an answer, they would find it there. You could tell they were going fast because Sarah's hair was flying everywhere. All of the sudden, they hit a rock BANG! They were all O.K., but where was Benny?

They had all gotten to the castle safely, except for Benny. They had forgotten all about him. Mark, Sarah and John had to sneak past the guards. They got past them safely, but the hard part was getting past the fat king. All of the sudden, they hear "Muhahahaha". It was the evil witch. The witch had seen them go by the guards, but she did not do anything.

They walked into the castle and right away two guards got Sarah and John. The Next thing Mark knew, he was getting wacked across the head. After they all woke up, they found that they were in a cell. Sarah got up and started yelling "get me out of here"! Mark and John said that it was no use because they were going to be in there for a very long time.

Twenty three years had past, and Mark, John and Sarah were still in the cell. They would get one meal a day. All of the sudden, they heard a loud bang, and the cell was unlocked, and in the shadows, a large knight stood. Behind him was the kings dead body. When the knight took off his helmet, they were speechless. It was Benny! In the end, they never found the golden goose.

The Quest for the Stone

By: Loren Thomas

On a rainy, summer afternoon Glimmer, Finn, Oliver, and Rainni were sitting on flying bean bags in Finn's basement. Oliver suggested that they go to the library down the street. After some begging and pleading, Finn's mother, Ms. Poland, gave in.

All four kids hopped into Ms. Poland's new 1,005,998 Buick. Ms. Poland handed them microchip phones, peanut butter and Cheetos sandwich (that is all the rage here in 1,005,998), and then said goodbye. The group of friends walked to the history section, their favorite part of the library. As they looked around, Rainni found a very odd book. The book was very dusty. Oliver asked if he could blow off the dust, like in the old movie scenes. The dust blew up into his face. Oliver made a gagging noise and the others laughed. Glimmer opened the book and read aloud, "On the galaxy of Startrek, there lies a stone that may grant peace along the galaxies. But only by the right person, a beautiful, confident and loyal girl." The rest of the page was torn off, and everybody looked at Glimmer. Glimmer blushed. She knew that person was her.

Tough quest. They had to be back by the summer season and there was a war going on, more bombings than usual. They all could agree that it would be awesome if there was no war. They made a plan, packed food clothes, walkie-talkies, microchip phones and headed out.

When they reached the teleporter, Rainni punched in the keycode and they all hopped in the small teleporting dome. When they landed, they were so tired from spinning in the dome, they fell asleep in the crisp snow. They fell asleep on Moonshadow, the very planet the stone happened to be on.

Oliver woke up in a strange cage in a strange building with strange people walking around inside. Glimmer's face was pale, Finn and Rainni were kneeled by her side. Oliver walked over and Finn explained that they had been captured by the Lukamana tribe. The people of the tribe adored them, but their master did not. In fact, he was the one who sent the guards out.

Three days passed until Glimmer was healed completely. Twelve days needed to pass before the summer solstice and Finn didn't think they could do it.

The Lukamana tribe finally stood up to their leader, and he fled. The four of them were let out of hostage. Lukamanas and humans were meant to be against each other, but so much for that myth.

They set out to the Valley of the Blue Springs and after digging into the planet's crust, they found the stone within three days of the summer solstice. All of the Lukamana tribe tried to wish for peace, but Oliver, Finn Rainni, and Glimmer knew that only Glimmer could save the galaxies and the world. Finn looked around for the stone, grabbed it and his three friends, and found a cave that just happened to be filled with bats to make the wish. Glimmer wished and wished, but her wish for the galaxies to be at peace did not come true. "Maybe we are in the wrong place. Maybe the place has to be beautiful too", Finn thought aloud. He looked around and saw off in the distance there was fog, with a rainbow coming out over the top of it. If there was an answer, he knew he'd find it there.

They rode on a cart to the fog and at the end was the rainbow. Glimmer ran over, long blond hair glowing, as she ran with the stone to sit on a patch of grass. Glimmer wished again. There was a huge shock wave and it was over.

They teleported back to Earth, finding new flowers and trees, and people were hugging.

The war was over. ☺

Missing in Venice

Paige

One day Emma and Allyson were renting a party suite for Emma's birthday party on the cruise ship S.S Disney. They were about ready to set sail when a mysterious man wanted to get on the ship to Venice, Italy. He was in class one just like Emma and Allyson. They saw him talking briefly to the waiters. They told him that if he didn't like the service then he should get off the ship, but he didn't want to.

He was very disappointed with the food and accommodations from that point on. He demanded that he wanted to talk to Captain Sam. She was so busy that she didn't have time for anything but the ship. So he bothered Emma and Allyson instead. They didn't want to hear it so they told him to go to a buffet table.

He took their advice and went to the buffet table. Then he ate a magical hot dog. He didn't know it was magical, and he was alone, so he expressed his anger to himself. He said that he wanted the ship to crash into Venice. He also wanted it to come true and it partially did, but not completely.

That night, while everybody else was sleeping, the mysterious man couldn't go to sleep. He was hearing weird noises coming from the outside. He went and opened the door and when he did, something crazy happened! Something came flying in the door! It was the ghost of his past, present, and future! The ghost told him that what he wished for was wrong, and he had to fix his wish by morning or his ghost would haunt him forever!

The mysterious man went up to Captain Sam and said they needed to go another path. She said they were sticking to that path and that they were done with the conversation. He ran back to his suite and told the ghost he tried but the ghost told him that he still had some time. He ran back and gave Captain Sam a spicy taco. She ran to the bathroom because her stomach was upset, and it was up to the mysterious man to steer the ship. They were headed straight for Venice! Even with her mighty engines in reverse, the ocean liner was pulled further and further into the canal.

Everybody was jumping into the canal, but they were happy to be there. The ghost told the mysterious man that he took charge for his actions. Even though the ship crashed everybody was happy. The mysterious man started to rebuild the ship. He then started to take people home. Everybody was happy at last.

The House Party On Maple Street

It was like any other school day, long and tiresome. I ended up looking at the clock again, five more minutes till the weekend. I looked around, the teacher was still talking, and everyone was looking at the clock too. Everyone in the class was ready for the big party tonight, and I was invited. Just then the bell rang and everyone flooded out. I was almost at my house. Then I saw something, they looked like action figures. I glared at them real hard. One of them moved. I walked closer to them. They weren't action figures. They were little tiny people like in Night Of The Museum. I picked them up. They looked like a space crew, and they looked sad.

When I picked them up, I went home, and finished my homework. I still had an hour. I tried to figure out why they were so sad. It took me twenty minutes to figure it out. They wanted to go to space. I told them they could go to space after the party. I had free time so I did some chores to get them over with and still had enough time, about thirty more minutes. I was tired so I took a little nap. I had fifteen more minutes so I decided to take a shower and get clothes on. I had ten minutes, just enough time to get there. It was a nice day to ride a bike there so I did. I got there with a minute to spare.

My friends Milo, Nick, Chris of course. Ash, he's always early. One time he got there before the host. We all started talking and while other guests arrived. I remembered the order of all of us coming. Ash, Nick, Chris, Milo, Me, Katy, and June... Just then Lmfao came in probably thinking nice digs, and he said it. We watched scary movies, the girls were kind of scared. We stayed up late. We ate pizza and popcorn. After two movies we were real hungry so we had steak for dinner. It was good. I just remembered Lmfao was still at the house with the tiny people. When we got back I asked Lmfao "Do you want to go to space?" Everybody looked confused. I told them about the little people and how they wanted to go to space. I reminded them about the assignment in two days. So we thought how to send Lmfao and the tiny people into space. We will put them in a house. Two days later they are at school in Science class. I told all the class to look out the window to you. Just then the house took flight everyone was shocked. I started wondering who pushed the button. One hour later when I got home from school I knew it was the evil Mr. Tree next door. At least it didn't explode, but it was a perfect lift off.

All my friends and I were very happy. We celebrated after finishing our homework. We played outside and had fun. Played all our favorite sports and activities. Then we all went home and did our own thing. I studied and then played video games. After the video games I felt hungry, so I made and ate mac and cheese. After that I watched TV. Then called some friends. To see if they wanted to play Xbox 360 online together. The End

Mr. Linden's Library By Kathryn Kraynak

Margrett entered the library. It had just opened two days ago so there weren't many books to pick from. Mr. Linden, Margrett's friend was the new librarian. As Margrett wandered the few books she looked at the clock, it said 4:15pm. She then picked up a green book with gold trim and took it to Mr. Linden to check out. With much worry, Mr. Linden slipped her a note that said, "Beware this book is dangerous and could put you and your family at risk."

When Margrett got home she ate some dinner and then settled down with her new book. She looked at the first page to see when it was written. The page said June 9, 2015. How could this be? It was only 2012. Excitedly, Margrett flipped the page and started reading a rather sad story, when a plant popped out from the page and sprayed her with a strange gas. She coughed and fanned the gas away, and then her phone rang. She picked it up and a voice told her that her husband Ben had been injured in the war at Iraq. Margrett looked at the plant in the book, ran over picked up the book ran to her car and tossed it into the back of her car. She cried herself to sleep.

The next morning she got in the car and drove back to the library, all the while terribly worried about her husband, Ben. She told Mr. Linden about the evening and the book. They both decided that it would be best to return the book to the library. Then Margrett returned to her home.

At 9 pm that evening Margrett tried to reach Ben, but was unable to get anyone. She yelled at the phone uselessly and began to cry. An hour later the phone rang and the voice said she needed to open the front door. When she did, there stood Ben! She wrapped her arms around him and just like that the bad luck had vanished. Margrett would never again get the mysterious library book from Mr. Linden's Library.

There once was a 20
year old who had a dream
to go to space.

He told all of his friends,
his mom and his dad and they told him that he does not have enough money to buy a spaceship, and does not have enough experience.

Later that night when he got home he decided to watch some tv.

He turned it on and it was on channel 28, "the science channel!" Ben screamed. The science channel was his favorite because he likes to learn from it. Ben was glum and happy because he was watching a show about space and that made him think about what all his friends said. But that wasn't going to stop him from watching it. After the space show was over Ben turned off the TV and went up stairs to go to bed.

Ben had a dream about being a astronaut. When he woke up he seemed very unhappy. He went down stairs and had two pancakes and a cup of orange juice.

Once he was finished with his breakfast he went up stairs and got ready for work.

When Ben got home from work he called his friend McKenna over for dinner. She was the only one of his friends that believed in him. For dinner they cooked some hotdogs.

At dinner Ben talked about how much he wanted to become an astronaut and how he does not have enough money to buy a spaceship. McKenna felt very bad for Ben that night McKenna did

Ben a favor! When Ben woke up he felt like something was different he looked outside his window and it was so dark! He went down stairs and realized McKenna was still there. She

Mr. Linden's Library

Sarah decided to pick out book from Mr. Linden's Library. One book that she noticed on a dusty shelf was actually a monster that was cursed to become a book. Mr. Linden warned her about the book. He told her that the book would cause her great harm if she opened it. She thought that he was joking and took the book while he was not looking. The monster book was as thick as three Harry Potter books. Its cover was made out of leather with beautiful gold letters for the title. Sarah especially loved to read really thick books, so she picked out the monster book because of its size and pretty cover.

After snatching the book, Sarah quickly left Mr. Linden's library. As she was walking home, Mr. Linden's strict warning was echoing in her head. She tried to ignore what he had said. When she got home, Sarah quickly got ready for the evening. She could not wait to start reading her new book. She then popped into bed and eagerly started to open the book. A strange fog seemed to seep out of the open book. Suddenly, Sarah fell asleep. Nothing could wake her. The mysterious book sprayed Sarah with sleeping gas. Strange vines crept out of the book and released itself from the curse.

Sarah was dreaming that she was in another dimension. She was trying to find a way to get out of this strange world. This “world” was full of monsters and demons and she desperately wanted to escape it. Sarah screamed for help but no one could hear her. The monster was happy because it was finally released from the thousand year old curse that forced it to live inside the book. Sarah was scared that she would never wake up!

One week later, Mr. Linden went to visit Sarah at her house. She hadn't been seen by him or any of her friends. He was very worried, especially since he noticed that the mysterious book was missing from his library. When he found her, she was covered in thick vines. Sarah was still in her deep sleep. He had warned her about the book. Now it was too late. There was nothing that he could do to help her.

Lying in her bed, unable to wake up from her nightmare, Sarah wished that she had never opened the book from Mr. Linden's Library. Even today, Sarah can be found in her bed completely trapped by the thick vines that but her into her forever sleep.

Maeve Mahoney

Under The Rug

It all started in the summer of 2011, Jim knew people had been disappearing from the town of Maevetopia, but what he didn't know was that the disease was coming his way. About the disease, it is called Flocsióis Hydropsisi, also known as Flocsióis. If it touches you, you will get the disease. When you touch the disease you begin to glow. Two weeks passed and it happened again.....

One day Jim was sitting in his chair reading a book, his feet were on the ground and his feet started to rumble. He looked up and there was something under the rug! Jim bounced out of his chair and picked up the chair. He threw the chair aiming at the unknown under the rug, unfortunately he missed. This unknown thing started to rise up and touch him. When Jim was touched, he started to glow. He knew at this time, he was infected with Flocsióis. The next thing he knew, he started to rise.....

Jim opened his eyes and he could tell that he wasn't in Maevetopia anymore. He was in a very big house in a different planet called MEM. An unknown lady approached him and told him to immediately clean all the bathrooms in the house. On his way to the bathroom, he ran into somebody in the hall. This person looked like a really nice girl. She whispered to Jim the cure for Flocsióis. Jim quickly cleaned the bathrooms, so that he could write a letter to his friend Matt, explaining the instructions required to make the cure. After a few long weeks, Matt finally received the letter. Unfortunately, Matt could not understand any of the instructions, which were sent by Jim. Matt went to get his ultraviolet light, which could help him more easily understand the instructions. Later in the day, Matt finished making the cure for Flocsióis. He sent the cure in the mail to Jim. The next day, Jim received mail.....

Jim gathered everyone in MEM who was from Maevetopia. They all agreed that everyone would get one sip of the cure. After everyone took a sip, they stopped glowing. They started to rise and suddenly they appeared back in their own houses in Maevetopia. Everyone lived happily ever after!

The Harp

Matthew Sparkman

One day in Germone 21150 in dimension 5, Billy was walking his dog when he saw a man. The man told him that there was a harp that opened up to a secret cave. Billy looked for the harp. He wandered what the harp looked like. One day he was looking and across a stream he found it! He tried playing it but that didn't work so he tried to pick it up. He tugged on it and it opened! So it's true be thought, it's really true.

He told his friends Hagrid and Dumbledore. After a few months they built a hideout! They had lots of fun! One time they made a zip line and Hagrid flew into the mud. Then another time is when Billy and Dumbledore were wrestling and Hagrid sprayed water all over them!

After a while things started disappearing. Once Dumbledore thought he heard some scurrying. One night when Hagrid was working on the hideout he thought he saw little shadows he thought he must be tired. Then Billy thought he saw a table move.

Then one day they all got captured by elves. The elf king told them they all have to go through three trails. The first trail was they had to cross a course, cross a track, and fight an elf. First they crossed the course Dumbledore had some trouble ,but they all made it. Then they ran a track filled with traps Billy triped and fell and he made it last. Finally they fought the elves they ended up taking the ring and shot down the elves.

The elves king let them go. Later when they went home they tried to forget everything. Everyone was happy, except the elves.

Under The Rug

By Zachary S. Oliveto

One day in Ohio the year was 2012, and Eurkel Mc. Dis was just relaxing and watching TV when he heard a tearing sound near the front door. He looked around the door, and he found a very big hole, big enough that a huge critter could fit. Eurkel was shocked! He shouted, "My dang insurance can't pay for this." So he closed the door and locked it when he saw a big lump going across the floor. Eurkel started to chase it but then it disappeared. Still in shock, he said, "well then perhaps I'm just tired." So he went to the refrigerator and when he opened the door all the meat and milk was gone. "What the horse is going on!" He shouted. "I see a lump under the rug and now this. I'll find that thing if it is the last thing I do!"

Two weeks later it happened again. "What the flipping frogs! Now everything is gone," he shouted. "I should stop going out to eat. But another words everything is gone." Then there was a crash in the living room. A lamp was knocked over on the floor then the refrigerator door opened. Eurkel looked inside the kitchen and there was a wolverine looking for food. "So you're the little critter that has been stealing all my food. Now I must get rid of you", said Eurkel. <sup>with my chain</sup>

If you are not a big fan of destruction and violence, you are in luck. Violence is bad and I'm after a good grade. Just imagine a whole bunch of screaming, yelling, crashing, screeching, weird gun fire, horror sounds and some not so "polite words".

After an hour of craziness, Eurkel won the fight and the wolverine ran all the way to Michigan. "Come back and fight me some more, you squirrely rascal!" He then walked back into his house and said, "My insurance guy still can't fix my house. Well let's see if the Gieko man can do a better job."

The end, or is it?

Oscar And Alphonse

Once upon a time in 3742, giant planktons were sent to Earth from Water World in a tank rocket. They end up landing in a girl's backyard. Her name is Julia, but the planktons don't know that and they never will. Like the way the girl will never know their names are Oscar and Alphonse. Luckily, it was a soft landing but it was enough to rattle a bush. Julia noticed and went to see what it was and that's when she found two caterpillars (planktons). She decided to take them in for a pet. She built them a cage and knew they would be comfortable.

This is what the planktons wanted. You see at Water World they were running out of supplies for the next generation of planktons, so they sent planktons to Earth to steal all their waterproof devices. Each night the planktons would steal their waterproof devices, shrink it so they can use it, then hide it in a mouse hole. After a couple nights the dad was suspicious so he stayed up all night to find the thieves. Unfortunately, he didn't find them because the planktons knew he was watching so they stayed in their cage all night. At night they usually steal their waterproof devices but they also go to their rocket for one reason, to get a refuel of water for their water bowl. Since they couldn't go anywhere, they had to drink carefully. The next night they continued to steal their waterproof devices.

One night they overheard Julia's dad talking to Julia about getting a pet dog. Then Julia asked if she could keep her caterpillars. Her parents insisted on her getting rid of them. They knew they didn't have much time left to steal, so at night they would take the stolen items from the mouse hole and store it in the rocket for when they'd have to leave.

The 18th night they were heading out to their rocket, there was an animal lurking around so they had to stay in their rocket for a long time. When they thought it was gone they snuck back inside when they realized, they hid too long. Julia was looking for them. The planktons knew if Julia found them by the door she'd think they'd want to go back to the real world but unfortunately, that's exactly what happened. She knew it was time to send them back. The caterpillars (planktons) softly wiggled in her hand, spelling out the word "goodbye." She let them go and they wiggled towards the rocket. They got in their rocket, strapped up and blasted off for Water World.

Oscar & Alphonse, The Message Creatures

~~Caroline~~
Carinne

Once upon a time in 3018, there lived a young girl and her family. The young, adventurous, girl's name was Saran. Saran had a wild imagination, along with a special power. Her special power was talking to animals! I know, strange right? Nobody has ever believed what Saran had done or seen, except for her strong brother, Chip, and beloved sister, Jilly. Now, that was all about to change. So, can you keep a secret? Good, so here Saran's story.

One day, Saran and her family took a trip to a campground to get some fresh air. The campground was called The Magical Forest, which made Saran quite concerned. Jilly wondered about Saran weirding out, about her powers and everything. I mean, it is called The Magical forest for a reason! Chip wondered about the plants and creatures, he wondered if there was maybe 'magical creatures.' Though Saran was the far most worried, excited, and interested of all of her siblings. Eager to find clues of where her powers might take her. Just a week after they found out they would be going on the camping trip, they went. It was absolutely beautiful! Saran thought. It looked almost as if a fairy had come by and sprinkled fairy dust on the trees. The pond were glimmering off the sunshine with flowers growing out of the water. It felt as if it was the one place where humans hadn't ruined it. Saran saw imaginary mermaids splashing in the water, which seemed so real. She also saw unicorns dancing in the sunshine, dragonflies prancing under a wispy cloud. Saran stared in amazement. She knew this was going to be an interesting trip and it was not just her that thought that, too!

When Saran's family got settled in, Saran, Jilly and Chip all went to look around, as their parents rested around the campfire. As the children looked around, she found a perfect spot to play in. It was so peaceful and quiet, which was perfect for her brother and sister. As they all sat down on a rock covered by leaves, Saran looked around. All of a sudden, animals from every directions popped out from under burrows! The three kids jaws dropped open. Then, the most weird part, they started spelling out words. Jilly, Saran, nor Chip said a word. They all understood, the creatures were giving them a message. Saran calmly placed her hand on the ground, so that the bugs could communicate more easily. They spelled out: "Please Do Not Let Anyone Ruin Our Animal Kingdom, It is Our Home. The two little caterpillars spelling out the words seemed quite special, Saran thought. The magical creatures seemed so friendly, not terrified one bit, considering how the kids would react. Chip and Jilly saw everything, too! The creatures I have been seeing have been real the whole time! Saran thought, proudly petting, talking and listening to them. The mermaids talked about pollution in the water, while unicorns talked about litter and hunting for their beloved, beautiful horns. Fairies flew around, singing a happy, cheerful song. Saran finally felt at home, somewhere she could be herself. Saran looked at the caterpillars while they introduced themselves. The smaller caterpillars name was Oscar, as with the bigger and older caterpillars was Alphonse. Saran loved the caterpillars, they were full of riddles and jokes. Jilly Even took a magical swim with the graceful mermaids, with the magical river. Even Chip was happy, riding like a royal prince on the silky backs of unicorns. Finally,

Oscar & Alphonse, The Message Creatures

Saran knew it was time for the creature to go back in hiding. The caterpillars softly wiggled out on her hand spelling out, "Goodbye." When they left, The three children remembered that day forever. The three children were remembered as goddesses and gods, also known as the "The Gold Children," In the way it was passed on. So remember, whenever you litter, The Three Gold Children are watching. So watch out!
