Whales

WHALE FAMILIES

Killer whales usually hunt in packs of 30 but sometimes they hunt in packs of 90. Baby humpback whales are darker than their parents. Baby whales do not have blubber so, they are born in warm places.

Physical description of a whale

Whales breath through a  blowhole their lungs do not connect their mouth. Whales are mammals and have a thick later of blubber to keep them warm. A baby blue whale is the size of a elephant. Whales swim in the ocean but come up for air.

FUN FACTS

Killer whales are dolphins.

Humpback whales fight for the females. Narwhals can live for 50 years. Baji whales are thought to be extinct.

WHALES ENEMIES

Whales enemies are killer whales and humans. Humans kill them for blubber and killer whales don't have predators and can hunt them.

WHAT WHALES EAT

Killer whales eat fish, plant that lives on the ocean floor, squid, seals, sea lions, walruses, birds, sea turtles, otters, penguins, polar bears, reptiles, sharks, octopi, and even smaller whales, they use their teeth pointing inward to keep in food but put out water.

Sharks

Family of a shark

Sharks are born by 8 sharks being made and 2 of them kill the other 6 so two are born
It may seem funny but it's true. The baby's go away and swim in the middle of the ocean and live on there own.
